Dear Mr. Mann:

I want to commend E-J Electric Installation Co. on the outstanding work they have done on behalf of our client on a major high rise project in New York City. The project was very complex, and a great deal of expertise, technical coordination, and focus in the field was required to ensure the high quality finished product that was achieved. E-J Electric's extensive experience working with high level mission critical systems and data centers was evident in the excellence and quality of the management and field supervision.

The project is a LEED project, with multiple LEED certifications being pursued for various aspects of the building construction and tenant work. E-J Electric's installation demonstrated its knowledge in working in accordance with LEED requirements, and supported LEED accreditation for their staff, which was essential to the projects success.

The experience of working with your field team, management and supervision was great. The project schedule was aggressive, and your team of professionals ensured that the client expectations were met with a final product of highest quality.

Sincerely,
